

Research Seminar Series

Joint Seminar with the Center for Comparative Immigration Studies

David Lindstrom

"Return Migration from the United States and Occupational Mobility in Mexico"

Wednesday, January 9th

3:30pm

Eleanor Roosevelt College

Admin Bldg. Room 115

David Lindstrom received his Ph.D. in Sociology from the University of Chicago with specializations in Demography and Statistics, and joined Brown University in 1994. He is Associate Professor of Sociology and Associate Dean of the Graduate School, and a core faculty associate of the Population Studies and Training Center. He teaches undergraduate and graduate courses in statistics, survey research, and migration. His research examines the determinants and consequences of migration in economically developing societies, the transition into adulthood, and the changing dynamics of reproductive health and behavior. He has received grants for his research in Mexico, Guatemala, and Ethiopia from the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, RAND, the Packard Foundation, and the Compton Foundation. He currently directs a major longitudinal study of adolescent health and transitions into adulthood in southwestern Ethiopia, and is lead author on a book on Mexico-U.S. Migration and the Life Course.
